ABOUT ANNUAL REVIEWS

Annual Reviews is a nonprofit organization dedicated to synthesizing and integrating knowledge for the progress of science and the benefit of society. We publish highly cited review journals covering 51 disciplines in the biomedical, life, physical and social sciences. More than 1000 review articles are published across our titles each year. Each article synthesizes knowledge from the expanding scientific corpus and provides a measured approach to understanding emerging research.

Our review articles are often considered essential reading for researchers. They:

- Capture current understanding of a topic, including what is well supported and what is controversial;
- Set the work in historical context;
- Highlight the major questions that remain to be addressed and the likely course of research in upcoming years; and
- Outline the practical applications and general significance of research to society.
